Kris.

Hope you're recovering from an amazing week! Thank you for letting me be part of it. I've heard from every business that we hosted. Each was blown away by the venue, the fare, the service, and of course, the titillating conversation with their hosts. I got a call today from Perry Ballard. He told me that he has never had the access we provided to you, Secretary Burdette, and Governor Tomblin in any other state where he's done business. I texted Jeff Newhouse shortly after he and his wife arrived at the Greenbrier and asked if his accommodations were suitable. He, as with most Quad managers, is from Wisconsin. His reply was, "I love West Virginia!" We have a couple new believers.

Thank you for the opportunity. I can't tell you how much I appreciate it and how much is helps me in my interactions with companies in my region.

Thank you.

Kris,

Sorry for lateness of this note but I wanted to reach out to you and thank you for the tremendous hospitality the state extended to my wife and I. Being a native West Virginian the week was really special to the both of us. Please let Keith and Joshua we really appreciated their hospitality. 2.3 Code of Professional Conduct and Conflict of Interest

In accordance with SBA directives the WVSBDC utilizes the Conflict of Interest/Standards of Conduct Form to take affirmative steps to avoid any prohibited acts identified in the policies and to act in the best interests of the client. Furthermore, employees and contracted coaches must make efforts to coordinate with the WVSBDC host institution requirements. All employees and contracted coaches are required to agree to abide by this policy in order to prevent occurrence of any situation in which regard for private interest or gain leads to or has the potential to lead to a disregard of the needs of the WVSBDC or the rights of its clients.

WVSBDC staff must maintain neutrality when working with clients. WVSBDC staff are expected to provide education and guidance by helping clients define problems and identify and assess solutions. Objective guidance may be offered to a client in evaluating a product or service, and a list of outside resources should be available to provide additional assistance to meet client needs. However, clients are not to be referred to a specific private firm for products or services, nor are staff to vouch for the viability of a client's business to potential investors, vendors, suppliers, customers or others. It is important for SBDC Coaches to maintain an objective position when working with clients.

The Standards of Conduct Agreement acknowledges the acceptance by the employee/contractor of the obligation of self-discipline and disclosure above and beyond the requirements of law. It notifies the public that representatives of the SBDC will maintain a high level of professionalism and ethics, and requires these individuals accept the obligation to conduct themselves in a way that is beneficial to society.

The WVSBDC enforces the Standards of Conduct by receiving and investigating all complaints of perceived violations and by taking disciplinary action against any individual if personally found to be guilty of code violation(s). It is the desire for confidence and respect of the profession that should motivate the individual to maintain the highest possible professional and ethical conduct.

An original signed Conflict of Interest/Standards of Conduct form is to be maintained by the PLC for a period of one year after the termination of the employee's or outside contractor's relationship with the WVSBDC. A copy of this form is to be provided to the employee or outside consultant. New signed Conflict of Interest/Standards of Conduct forms are required annually by all WVSBDC employees and outside consultants that provide WVSBDC services and/or who have direct or indirect access to WVSBDC clients or client records.

2.4 Confidentiality

All WVSBDC Coaches (including partner organizations, administrative staff and resource partners) are required to maintain the strictest confidentiality in connection with all matters related to client services. All client-related information should be considered proprietary and should not be used for purposes other than the provision of WVSBDC services.

Business Coaches have the primary responsibility to assure the confidentiality of client information and to prevent conflicts of interest. The PLC must manage client assignments and casework to ensure there is no conflict of interest within a center or a business coach's client portfolio. Staff shall not provide clients with proprietary or competitive data or information obtained from other client records.

Care and discretion must be used in storing client data in the customer relationship management system –Neoserra. Trade secrets, sensitive, or proprietary information should not be stored in Neoserra.

Centers and outreach offices must have a policy for securing access to, and safekeeping of, all client data not in Neoserra. Centers and outreach offices must also have a policy for the destruction of all information and data no longer pertinent to the coaching engagement.

Per federal statute, no client information may be shared or disclosed under any circumstance without the client's expressed written consent. Business coaches may not mention client names or discuss cases with those outside the SBDC network without client approval. In that case, prior permission from the client must be obtained, in writing, on the Release of File Content Information. If client information is to be used for any public releases or publications, the client must sign a "Publicity Release" (see the publicity release form included in the appendix) authorizing the release of information contained in the publication. The signed original of this form, along with the information the client has authorized to be released must be in the client's file.

Unauthorized disclosure of the identity of clients or of proprietary information about specific clients is in violation of professional ethics and may be grounds for dismissal.

Mailing lists of SBDC clients will not be made available for use outside of the West Virginia SBDC network without the prior written permission of the State Director.

Space designated for client meetings must be sufficiently private as to provide confidentiality.

As part of a Small Business Administration (SBA) review of an SBDC, SBA personnel may be granted access to client names and contact information in order to contact the clients to ascertain their perception of the services they received from the SBDC. SBA may only request information on a reasonable number of clients (that is, a reasonable number to call to evaluate quality of assistance; but certainly not a complete client list). The SBA personnel conducting such a review may, if unable to complete the calls on site, take the contact information in order to complete the necessary calls later.

Ok, how long would it take to get actual samples of the items? They actually want to see the product in hand before ordering....

That's great, you can hold the clear ones till you get them finished, we don't need those until the last of June for the PGA....

All 40,000 white bags will go out today, clear bags are still printing, hoping to send out at least half of those today as well!

You will receive two separate shipments, one tomorrow and the second shipment should go out Thursday. The entire order was not going to be ready for tomorrows shipments but I did not want to have you wait any further. I let you know in the morning how many bags to expect in the first shipment but it will be over half of the entire order.

I would have called to confirm everything with you but allergies have destroyed my voice this week.

Please let me know if you need anything else!

Your bags are scheduled to be shipped on May 13. Since the problem with the previous company had delayed this order for you, I have been pushing to get them completed as quickly as possible. If there is any way rush the order further I will definitely let you know.

Hi Ben

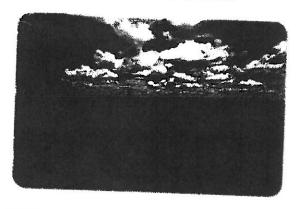

Can you give me an estimated date as to when we might see the bags? Is there any way we could get a partial shapks.

Thanks

Georgie
